for all the ways you love their skin.

Keeping a wound or skin irritation protected from germs and bacteria is a critical part of the natural healing process.

That's why *ExoExo*TM provides a protective barrier for damaged/irritated skin, which helps to support skin and coat health by keeping wounds and other affected areas isolated from contamination.

Using ExoExo may also discourage your pet from licking the affected area to prevent introduction of more bacteria and additional skin irritation.

ExoExo can be applied to:

- Cuts, wounds, scrapes
- Bumps, rashes, blisters, sores
- Bacterial and fungal/yeast infections
- Suture lines and tube sites

Forms protective barrier

Adhesive properties of ExoExo skin care allow the product to stick to the skin and stay in place to keep the skin protected.

Supports skin health

The ingredients in ExoExo have been hand-selected for their properties that work together to benefit the skin.

Maintains moisture content of skin

The barrier created by this product not only helps keep contaminants out, but also keeps moisture in, ensuring that the skin stays hydrated.

Great for application on suture lines

After surgery, an animal is more at risk for infections that may find their way into the body through any incision sites. ExoExo can safely be applied to suture lines to keep contaminants out and may stop the animal from licking their incision.
